mLINQS Releases New Federal Relocation Expense Reporting Portal

FAIRFAX, VA – (October 20, 2015) – mLINQS, LLC today announced it has released a new Reporting Portal for federal agencies that have implemented the company's moveLINQ relocation expense management system. Users will be able to create and maintain customized relocation reports for trend analysis, budgeting and policy decisions, and to respond promptly to management or FOIA requests.

"Our federal customers told us they needed a tool that would provide them with greater visibility into and control over their enterprise relocation cost data," said mLINQS' president, Greg McIntyre. "We've responded with our new moveLINQ Reporting Portal. The Web-based software requires little or no agency IT support, and is permission driven to enforce security. It enables agencies to focus on their business delivery, rather than writing complex, hard to maintain reports.

"Several members of Congress as well as a recent report from the Government Accountability Office have stressed the need for agencies to provide information about their employee PCS relocation spend as way to monitor and control costs. Our moveLINQ Reporting Portal cost-effectively addresses this need."

The Reporting Portal provides a highly flexible base of relocation cost management reports that federal agencies can customize to meet their unique needs. Customization features include:

- Real time self-serve reporting that enables the creation, saving, and sharing of customized reports.
- User configurable content filtering, formatting, sorting, grouping, and aggregations.
- Functionality to transform tabular data into visualizations such as graphics.
- Export capability in various document formats.

moveLINQ is used to support relocation for the employees of over 35 federal agencies, including 11 of the 15 federal executive departments. The moveLINQ Reporting Portal is currently available as an Open Market item, and will be added to the mLINQS GSA Schedule in the near future.
